This is what I will do with the information I have learned today:

I'm going to try to be more creative in the kitchen. One of the things I learned and am eager to try is to have my child create and name a dish.

EVALUATION REPORTS

Download 6-month and annual evaluation reports, dated back from 2002 to current, in this section. A lot of valuable information is packed into each report that further exhibits the effectiveness of wichealth.org in providing tools that help clients move toward healthy behavior change. Reports include general and state specific data and analysis. Below are just a few highlights from the most recent report for the period, October 1, 2009 through September 30, 2010:

- Over 90% indicated they believe they can make changes using what they learned.
- Over 94% of clients indicated wichealth.org was easy to use.
- Over 67% of clients access wichealth.org from home.
- Among users entering the site staged in pre-contemplation, contemplation, or preparation, 92% advanced at least one stage of change.
